

Kathryn Bell is a Health Policy Advisor for Senator Bill Cassidy, M.D. (R-LA), Ranking Member of the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions. In this capacity, Kathryn covers policy issues related to the NIH, CDC, and Administration for Strategic Preparedness and Response. Kathryn has held this position since 2019, working under then-Chairman Lamar Alexander (R-TN) and, later, Ranking Member Richard Burr (R-NC). Prior to her current role, she served in multiple public health and science policy roles within the Department of Health and Human Services. Kathryn holds a bachelors' degree from Vanderbilt University and a Master of Business Administration from the George Washington University.
