

Siobhan Murray is Senator Kaine's legislative correspondent supporting his work on the Health, Education, Labor and Pensions (HELP) Committee. She previously served as Deputy District Director, immigration caseworker, and intern in various district offices across Virginia including the cities of Fredericksburg and Roanoke. She is a graduate of Virginia Tech where she studied Philosophy, Politics, and Economics. She recently completed the Alliance for Health Bipartisan Learning Communities Health Care Fellowship and is currently participating in the Stennis Emerging Leaders Program for Hill Staffers. Her areas of interest include maternal and rural health care and higher education issues.